

-7-

A WALL MEMBER

Abstract

A wall member (10) that may be used with similar constructed wall members to form a retaining wall or similar type of structure. The wall member (10) is at least partly formed of cast concrete and is transported to the location at which it is to be installed. The wall member (10) has an elongated base (11) from which there upwardly extends a wall portion (12). The member has end faces (13) between which one or more passages (17) extend provide for the ducting of services through the wall member (10).